old vs new skool technopop

yaputhma is a planet in the far space, from which gosh aka dj_snobo has fallen to earth, along with a motley company of like-minded musical clowns, in mid 90s. yaputhma sound system made a big noise (which happened to remain local though) in a small baltic country named latvia, and its members continued their ways in various directions. after a few years of making beats and pieces solo, gosh spent a sabbatical on yaputhma, and now has returned to earth. the avalanche of new musical output is possible, but not inevitable; however, excerpts from gosh's vast record collection full of new and old stuff of all genres and moods just beg to be played out to public sometimes. this exclusive mix for p45 radio serves as a serious revisitation of old classic and hidden/forgotten treasures in perfect blend with new(er) releases. as usual, our guest is introduced by new.com (cmfrt_ns_prdctns/p45)
